- Art Angels classes in the schools

Nancy shared results of the Spring Art Angels Workshop, held May 6, at the Wilbur May Museum. She had 50 children registered, plus 2 alternates, and ended up with 38 children painting for Mother's Day. Nancy expressed her thanks to instructors, Linda James, Alicia Cobb, Joan Garrett, Cheryl Keaveney, and Gail Kramer, also to the helpers Bess Inouye, Nancy Le Sage, Ute Vetter, Marcia Whalley, Sherry Jeurissen, and Brooke Cobb, plus Jane Chapman and George Baba, who greeted the children and matted the paintings. We received $59.00 in tips! The next workshop will be on Friday, July 27th for Artown, with morning and afternoon sessions.

The classroom visits are almost over for the year. Thank you to helpers Linda James, Bess Inouye, Eileen Fuller, Sandy Retter, Gail Kramer, JR Stafford, Joycette Dapra, Vicki Curwen, and Kathy Martin for their recent help. And a special thank you to Linda James for instructing two classes, when Nancy was unavailable.

Nancy passed out the sign-up sheet for helpers for the remaining classes and for the July workshop, for which she needs both instructors and helpers for both morning and afternoon sessions.

Challenge: Judy Berland and Tish Neff

“I need_____.” (Fill in the blank.) The object of a painting is to tell a story. Judy asks that for this challenge, we fill in the blank and create a painting from that. For instance, “I need shoes” could be a painting of a homeless person with blown-out tennies. “I need a vase” could be a pile of wild flowers. “I need a bath” could be a dog covered in mud. Provide your “Blank” item on a note with your entry.

Announcements:

Ruth Jaeger had more information on the judged exhibit. Categories are: Portraits/Figures; Fur, Fins & Feathers; Abstract; Floral/Still Life and Landscape/Architecture. Framed paintings: two per artist, only one full size. Minimum size: 11x14 (on the outside edge of mat). Maximum size: Full sheet matted. Plexiglas must be used where outside edge of mat measures more than 22x28. The postcard to advertise the show will carry the photo of Larry Jacox "Near Berlin," which won Best of Show last year.

The plans we originally had for the downstairs have been cancelled due to the Museum scheduling another event for the downstairs area. So all we will need for downstairs is bin art. There will be no miniatures for display or sale.

Julene Hunter has been working on the on-line entry which will include bios that will be required this year. We are thinking of including a photo of our paintings on the entry form, as well.

As usual, the entry form will be available on our website at least a month before the entry date.

Ruth Clark said she has a painting hanging in the new sanctuary at Renown Medical Center, which has just opened.
